Cardinal Nichols: The virtues of faith, hope and charity in 2022

“As we start a new year, we may well ponder why it is that so many people act in such generous ways. I firmly believe that it [is] the promptings of the Holy Spirit, that flow of love pouring out of God, that lies as the deepest source of this service. It goes beyond self-interest. It is seeking a future beyond the securities of the present, for they have been shaken. It is the privilege of faith to identify and highlight the well-spring of this goodness: the radical hope given in the promises of God. It is also the source of our joy and the best reason for wishing each other a happy New Year.” Read more:
